

This is Olga the cloud. She is as white and soft as cotton wool. -1-	This evening Olga decides to sleep on top of the Moon, and she is very happy. -2-	But the Moon does not like jokes. So he calls a friendly bird and the bird tells Olga to go away. -3-
Olga flies around the sky, and she does not know where to sleep. -4-	Soon she stops over a sleeping cat. Olga is desperate to drop some rain. -5-	But the cat opens its yellow eyes and says: " You are not going to rain here, I hope!" So Olga goes away. -6-

Then she stops over Hatty the hen. She is walking with her chicks. Olga is still desperate to drop some rain. -7-	The hen looks up and says: " You are not going to rain on my chicks, I hope!" So Olga goes away. -8-	Then she stops over a field of sunflowers. By now Olga can't hold her rain any longer, she simply must drop it. -9-
But the chief of the sunflowers says: " Please do not rain here. You are not big enough to give us all a drink!" And again Olga goes away.	Olga is desperate. Luckily she meets Dicky the bird and asks him what to do. Dicky points with his wing to a place where there are some other clouds.	Olga flies to join her friends, and they all rain together without asking permission. -12-
